I just wanted to thank you again for taking part in our EXPLOSION! Teen Rally. It was an amazing evening and the large group of teens that came forward to make a change in their lives spoke volumes about the effect your message had on them. You captured their attention as you shared and I appreciate how up to date you are on all of the issues that hit them right in the face. I think you touched on something that spoke to each teen in the area they struggle.

I commented to an administrator at the first school you spoke at on Friday about how attentive the kids all were. He made the comment that it was early in the day and that the rest of the schools would be different as we progressed through the day. At the end of the day, I wanted to call him and let him know how wrong he was. As you spoke at each school, you could have heard a pin drop as you held the attention of the teens. I think they all expected the "sex talk" from yet one more guest speaker. What they got was a really cool guy that started right out grabbing their attention with your "Would You Rather" game! You showed them that there are adults that care about them and are interested enough in what they face to talk straight to them without pointing fingers and condemning them. It was more like holding up a mirror for them to look into then offering them truth and encouragement on how to make positive changes.

We would love to have you come back again and I know that the same teens would look forward to having you as their guest speaker. I would share our experience with anyone that would like a reference.

Again, thank you for all that you gave to northern eastern Indiana teens. You were a blessing for all of us!

Blessings as you continue serving our Lord,

Mari Bowers
